

What does the state budget include for children and families?

Measures relevant to the child and family services sector

The Victorian State Budget 2021-22 was handed down on Thursday 20 May 2021.¹ The Centre has prepared this quick overview of the budget measures that are relevant to your work in the child and family services sector and to the children, young people and families that you support.

Child and family services and out-of-home care

◆ Early intervention and diversion - $15.6 million in 2021-22 ($70.3 million over four years)

Further funding is provided for a range of early intervention programs to divert more families from involvement in the children and families system and statutory interventions. This includes a trial to embed family services in universal settings such as schools, early years services and community health hubs to provide more accessible services for vulnerable families.

Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations will continue to receive funding to give 400 Aboriginal families each year access to Koorie Supported Playgroups and In-Home Parent Coaching to support the home learning environments of young Aboriginal children

Funding is also provided to pilot a new employment program, Frontline Victoria, which will fast-track degree qualified career changers into a career in the children and families sector. This program provides participants with financial support to complete graduate-level qualifications and paid placements with child and family services providers to develop participants' practical skills.

◆ Maintaining the foundations of the children and families system - $263.9 million in 2021-22 ($1 billion over four years)

Funding is provided to continue the expansion of the child protection workforce and increase out-of-home care placements for children who are unable to live safely with their families. Funding is also provided for a range of initiatives to improve outcomes for vulnerable families and enhance the quality and safety of the children and families system, including:

- further funding to continue the transfer of case management of Aboriginal child protection and out-of-home care services to Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations;
- Family Group Conferencing to divert vulnerable children and families from statutory services through a process led by family members to plan and make decisions for a child who is at risk of harm, abuse or neglect;
- additional funding for the settlement of civil claims for historical institutional child abuse and providing additional supports to Victorians in institutional care before 1990;
- continuation of Child FIRST services to connect vulnerable families to services that meet their needs;
- continuation of integrated healthcare in secure welfare services for children and young people while they are in secure care;
- continuation of enhanced cleaning and hygiene requirements in residential care and other settings to limit the spread of coronavirus (COVID-19); and
- continuation of assistance available to ensure the sustainability of community service organisations at risk of financial stress

◆ Putting Families First - $5.2 million in 2021-22 ($17.8 million over three years)

Funding is provided to implement trials in Brimbank-Melton and Goulburn of a new whole-of-family support model. Interdisciplinary teams led by a family practitioner will work with vulnerable families with multiple health, justice or human services needs to improve their safety, health and wellbeing, and divert them from long-term acute and tertiary service usage.

◆ Reforming care services - $53.4 million in 2021-22 ($101.7 million over four years)

Funding is provided for increased support to home-based carers and children and young people under their care. The package includes:

- an expansion of respite placements to kinship carers;
- an expansion of the training and support Carer KaFE program to permanent carers; and
- an expansion of the Better Futures and Home Stretch programs to assist eligible young people on permanent care orders to either remain in care until they turn 21 years of age or transition to independence.

Funding is also provided to continue the permanent carer helpline and the Keeping Connected Sibling and Placement Support and the Treatment Foster Care Oregon evidence-based models of care.

Family violence

◆ Responses for children and young people impacted by family violence and sexual assault - $14.1 million in 2021-22 ($44.1 million over four years)

Funding is provided to continue the statewide expansion of services to adolescents who use violence in the home, extend sexually abusive behaviour treatment services and provide sexual assault support services targeted to children and young people.

◆ Central Information Point - $12.9 million in 2021-22

Funding is provided to continue the operation of the statewide Central Information Point which provides information to family safety practitioners in The Orange Door support and safety hubs, allowing them to assess and manage the safety risks of family violence victim survivors.

◆ Information sharing and family violence risk assessment and management reform - $26.9 million in 2021-22 ($97 million over four years)

Funding is provided to enable departments and agencies to support Phase Two organisations to meet obligations prescribed under the legislated family violence Multi-Agency Risk Assessment and Management (MARAM) framework and Child and Family Violence Information Sharing Schemes. Support includes workforce training and change management guidance and tools to ensure that organisational policies and practices are consistent with both information sharing schemes and the MARAM framework.

◆ Intervening early to prevent family violence - $1.2 million in 2021-22 ($2.4 million over two years)

Funding is provided to support the development of tools and resources for addressing drivers of sexual violence in young people, and the delivery of youth-focused programs that promote healthy relationships and community understanding of family violence.

◆ Perpetrator accountability - $12.8 million in 2021-22 ($18.1 million over four years)

Funding is provided to enable family violence specialists to deliver perpetrator interventions and contribute to an increasing evidence base about what works to change behaviour and prevent violence. Funding will enable specialists to work with perpetrators and their families to deliver

Men's Behaviour Change programs, and to extend perpetrator responses and accommodation support.

◆ Pets in refuges and crisis accommodation - $0.6 million in 2021-22 ($1.2 million over four years)

Funding is provided to support victim survivors in family violence situations ensuring the safety of and ongoing connection with their pets. This includes flexible brokerage for family violence refuges to access pet boarding, pet foster care, rehoming programs and fitting out accommodation for the needs of pets. Funding will also support family violence refuge and crisis accommodation providers to develop relationships with animal shelters and local animal welfare agencies.

◆ Support for victim survivors of family violence and sexual assault - $21.9 million in 2021-22 ($49 million over four years)

Funding is provided to continue case management responses for victim survivors of family violence in emergency accommodation and for victim survivors of sexual assault, to extend family violence supports and services including sexual assault services, statewide 24/7 crisis services, flexible support packages, culturally safe responses for Aboriginal survivors, and case management and brokerage for women on temporary visas. Funding is also provided to build the capacity of the service system to respond to culturally and linguistically diverse communities and faith communities.

◆ Justice system response to family violence - $5.4 million in 2021-22 ($13.7 million over four years)

Funding is provided to further strengthen, integrate and embed the justice system's response to family violence through:

- establishing legal services in The Orange Door network;
- continuing counselling and trauma programs to support women in prison;
- continuing family violence training and implementation of the Multi-Agency Risk Assessment and Management (MARAM) framework across the justice portfolio supported by specialist family violence practice leads embedded in Corrections Victoria and Youth Justice;
- building family violence capacity through dedicated research and evaluation functions; and
- better identification of perpetrators and continuation of tailored intervention programs to support behaviour change and help break the cycle of family violence.

Mental health and social and emotional wellbeing

◆ Supporting the mental health and wellbeing of infants, children and families - $22.5 million in 2021-22 ($195.8 million over four years)

Funding is provided to establish 13 reformed infant and child area mental health and wellbeing services to provide a dedicated service stream for infants, children and families (aged 0-11), to ensure treatment, care and support is adapted to the needs of this age group.

Three infant, child and family hubs will be established based on a one-stop approach for child health, including emotional and developmental health, as well as providing culturally safe wrap around support for vulnerable and disadvantaged children and their families.

Funding is also provided for evidence-informed online parenting programs, and group-based parenting sessions offered through the infant, child and family hubs. Community perinatal mental health teams will also be expanded in area adult and older adult mental health and wellbeing services across Victoria.

- ◆ Mental health reform in education: setting up children and young people to thrive - $9.5 million in 2021-22 ($217.8 million over four years)

Funding is provided to establish a School Mental Health Fund, enabling schools to select and implement mental health and wellbeing initiatives that best suit their students' needs from an evidence-based menu. The initiative will be rolled out to regional and rural government schools from Term 3 2022, before roll-out to all government schools by 2024. Funding is also provided to improve supports available to young carers and referral pathways through the mental health and wellbeing, and education systems.

Funding will expand the Mental Health in Primary Schools pilot to include 90 government schools and 10 non-government schools in 2022. Funding will also continue the Maroondah Positive Education initiative, which aims to increase the wellbeing and educational outcomes of students in 27 schools. These initiatives will provide vital support to these schools and inform best practice mental health across the school system.

- ◆ Supporting Aboriginal social and emotional wellbeing - $22.9 million in 2021-22 ($116.2 million over four years)

Funding is provided to establish new structures and self-determined services across Victoria to support and promote Aboriginal social and emotional wellbeing.

This includes expanding social and emotional wellbeing teams to Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisations (ACCHOs) across Victoria, as well as funding the Victorian Aboriginal Controlled Health Organisation to establish an Aboriginal social and emotional wellbeing centre of excellence. ACCHOs will also be funded to commission the delivery of culturally appropriate social and emotional wellbeing services for children and young people.

Funding is also provided to resource Infant, Child and Youth Area Mental Health Services to support Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisations, with the creation of Koori mental health liaison officer positions.

- ◆ Supporting families and carers - $5.9 million in 2021-22 ($92.7 million over four years)
